SATURDAY, APRIL 4. News of the Morning.

The last trip of the IDAHO was the shortest she has vet made between San Francisco and Honolulu - 10 days and 12 hours. In January she made a passage of 10 days and 20 hours. The remaining four passages have varied from 11 days and 12 hours to 11 days and 20 hours each. The winds on the last passage down were not so favorable as during some of the previous ones, and the weather was unusually

The news from Washington shows that Congress has taken hold of the impeachment matter in good earnest, and appears determined to bring the President to trial, which was set, at his own request, for March 23. It is understood that he would appear in person before the Senate on that day, and claim that Senators who have expressed an opinion on his case shall not sit in judgment on him. If overruled, it is stated that he may resign the presidency, as the verdict would in his opinion be a foregone conclusion.

Private Letters from Washington state that the prospects for the confirmation of the ratification of the Treaty were not quite so fair, since the receipt of late official despatches from these islands relating to the Lackamanna's stay. We know not what these despatches are, but they are represented to have been of such a nature as to endanger the good will towards us of the American Government, and especially of Senators, should they be laid before the Senate, in its discussion of the Treaty.

Among the passengers by the Idaho is Mr. Ben. Holladay, Jr., who visits us on business connected with the steamer line, and will remain here some weeks, visiting probably each of the islands. The company hope to obtain from this Government a subsidy for the line, and we doubt not the Legislature will readily vote the sum we have before suggested-$25,000 a year.

GEO. H. MUMFORD, Esq., of Rochester, New York, is also a passenger by the Idaho. He has long been connected with the telegraph enterprises throughout the United States. To Shipmasters.

We would urge captains of whaling vessels cruising in Kodinek, Arctic or Ochotsk seas, to prepare full reports of their cruises while north; especially any information relating to the land seen last senson by several vessels. Should the weather prove to be as pleasant and the sea as gentlemen excluded from his seat in the Assembly free from ice as it was last year, good opportunities may be afforded for making further investigations, and any facts gathered will be of general how, with the same fairness in the decision, interest and well worth publication.

By the last mail we received from Prof. Joseph HENRY, Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution at Washington, a letter relating to the discovery made last year, and the account published by Capt. Long. As Prof. Henry calls for further information, it may be well to copy a portion of his letter, which is dated February 12th :

"We were greatly interested in the details published by you relative to the Arctic land, and now write to beg that you will, as speedily as convenient, communicate any additional facts that may have come to your knowledge. . . If you can send any sketches or charts of the region in question, it may be of importance.

"Permit us to inquire whether the whalers do not bring to the Sandwich Islands, specimens of natural history from the Arctic seas, such as skins and skulls of curious animals, shells, &c. We are greatly interested in the zoology of the North, especially since the acquisition of Russian America, and anything illustrative of its waters or lands, will be of value to us. I may, more especially, mention the skins and skulls, with, if possible, the skeletons, of the different seals, sea lions, fur seals, &c., porpoises and other cetaceans; skins of the different Arctic birds, with their eggs, shells, &c. A good, mountable skin of each kind of northern seal is especially desired, including the walrusses. The polar bear, brown bear, &c., are also among our desiderata. * * It is needless to say that any specimens from the new Polar lands would be of the highest interest and im-

These extracts will indicate the kind of information and specimens sought for by Prof. Henry, and Captains who will take the pains to secure any specimens or write out their observations concerning the Polar regions, will confer a benefit on science and aid in diffusing correct knowledge, papers and memoranda by the Haho.

THE ALABANA CLAIMS .- From high authority in Washington, we learn that at the time of the death of Sir Frederick Bruce, the late British Minister to the United States, negotiations for the settlement of the Alabama claims had so far progressed that the British claims, which were expected to offset those " KILLAUEA" of the United States, had actually been submitted and on the part of our own Government it had been proposed to strike a balance by the cession of British Columbia to the United States. We appro hend that our own citizens will be surprised to learn that a large amount of claims against our Government has been submitted by the British Government : this amount will be considered excessive by parties who are not aware that during the late civil war British subjects at New Orleans and the Southwest generally were industriously engaged in making up and forwarding to their Minister at Washington statements of losses of property alleged to have been sustained by them on account of the operations of the national troops. It is fair to presume that they were encouraged in this proeeding by Lord Lyons, and the result was a prodigious list of claims now in the hands of the State Department at Washington. The presumption s that the two Governments will eventually settle by considering the claims for damages by each as "stand-off," and that British Columbia will be thrown in as a make weight, compensating for any difference in favor of the United States in the rela tive value of the claims. This would, of course, contemplate the obtainment of the consent of the inhabitants of British Columbia by vote; and the satistaction of the claims of citizens would have to be made by each Government for its own subjects or citizens .- Alta

It is true, large fortunes have been made, chance having much to do with the matter, and rascality more, but it is equally true that larger fortunes have been lost. New York, February 15, 1868.

In the year 1860, a gentleman who had formerly lived at the Islands, then residing at Baton Rouge and holding a responsible position under the Louis iana State Government, upon taking up his daily paper one morning learned that one John Kaiwi claiming to be a native of the Sandwich Islands, had been arrested as a vagrant negro who could give no satisfactory account of himself. In other words, ho was imprisoned on suspicion of being a runaway slave. Mr. Van I. was naturally much interested and went immediately to ascertain the circumstances of the case. He learned that poor Kaiwi had strayed to New Bedford on board a whale ship, and had afterwards found his way to New Orleans where he had shipped on board a Red River steamboat. Waking out of a spree one morning he found that his boat had left him behind, and speaking English very mperfectly, besides being out of money, was not able to give what was considered a satisfactory account of himself, and was thrown in prison where he had been confined two months. The Judge of the Court having control of such cases was a particular friend of Mr. Van I., and to oblige him he held a special Court to dispose of this case. The scene in Court, where poor Kaiwi met and conversed in his own native tongue with his benefactor, is stated to have been most in teresting. Hearing his own language spoken for the first time in many months and finding a friend thus unexpectedly raised up for him, nothing could ex-great demand with the ladies of Baton Rouge Finally the war came on, but Kaiwi did not abandon his master. Though essentially peaceful in his nature, like all Hawaiians, he never flinched. Gen erally he was kept in the rear attending to cooking and to the officers' tents and baggage. On one occasion, however, fortified by several "snifters" of Dutch courage, he volunteered to shoulder a musket, During the battle his regiment was ordered to a snot where the bullets flew thick and fast.
